The authors assign reproduction, distribution and public diffusion rights to the JCS&T in freely and non-exclusive manner.

The license model is Creative Commons CC BY-NC.

The JCS&T guarantees to the authors the paper publication with explicit mention to their names and affiliation data, both online and printed editions.

The authors must guarantee that their paper is original and that it has not been submitted or published elsewhere, except invited papers by the editors and the editorial board. Besides, authors must guarantee that their paper does not infringe other people rights nor contain harmful expressions.

In the case of several authors, this agreement must be signed by all of them. One single author can sign in the name of the others, making him/her responsible of informing the corresponding terms to the rest.
